Travel Dates	May 13-25, 2019
MGMT2200, Section F "Entrepreneurship and Innovation" 3 credits Prerequisite: None.	Dr. Eliada Griffin El, SBUS griffinel@rmu.edu
HSAM4951/HSAM7951 "Healthcare in South Africa" 3 credits Prerequisite: None for non-HSA students. HSA students should contact hampe@rmu.edu for more information.	Dr. Holly Hampe, SNHS hampe@rmu.edu
Program Fee - The Program Fee includes participation in one or both courses. - $500 Deposit due December 4, 2018 ($250 is non-refundable)	$3,500

Course Information

MGMT2200, Section F "Entrepreneurship and Innovation" (3 credits)
Prerequisite: None.
This course presents the practice of identifying and evaluating opportunities and undergoing the innovation process by which to effectuate solutions to create value for a target market. The course examines the application of the entrepreneurial process within start-up ventures, corporations, and public institutions in an emerging market context. South Africa will serve as an exciting "live case study" of a nation's rising entrepreneurial activity purposed to promote market activity and innovation after emerging from the historical regime of apartheid, and the vibrant democracy that has formed since then.

HSAM4951/HSAM7951 "Healthcare in South Africa" (3 credits)
Prerequisite: None for non-HSA students. HSA students should contact hampe@rmu.edu for more information.
As an emerging market with both continental and global influence, South Africa offers students the unique opportunity to witness and learn firsthand about health and innovation systems within one of the largest African economies. The prevailing entrepreneurial spirit and systems change, despite the many years of institutionalized division created by apartheid, has shaped practice and discourse to positively impact the development of the Southern African nation going forward. The current drive to create a more inclusive society through health and entrepreneurial activities provides an intellectually stimulating setting for this study abroad program.

Cost

The $3,500 program fee includes: airfare, housing, most meals, mandatory excursions (for example, museum fees, company visits, historical sites), and supplementary travel insurance.

The fee does not include: personal spending money, some meals, elective (free time) excursions, passport fees, overweight baggage fees.

The tuition for this course is covered by your Spring 2019 tuition payment (if taking between 12-18 credits).

Payment Due Dates

- December 4, 2018: $500 Deposit Due ($250 non-refundable)
- January 15, 2019: $1,500 Second Payment Due
- February 19, 2019: $1,500 Final Payment Due

You may make a payment via our online payment page.

Scholarships

CGE offers competitive scholarships that give select students funding to be applied toward the total Program Fee for a 2019 FLEAP. In order to be eligible, you must complete an application, original essay, and a letter of reference. Scholarship applications are due December 4th, along with all registration materials.

Travel Guidelines

The international travel component of this program includes travel from Pittsburgh International Airport to the country and back. No exceptions will be made concerning alternate travel arrangements.

To Register

All students must have at least a 2.5 GPA following the Fall 2018 semester in order to participate.

Students can register for the course by logging into Sentry Secured Services and adding this course to their Spring 2019 schedule.

Once you have successfully registered, please submit the following to the Center for Global Engagement by December 4th, 2018:

- Faculty Led (FLEAP) Application
- Health and Safety Form
- Copy of your valid passport
- Copy of current health insurance card
- Two letters of recommendation, one from an RMU faculty member and one personal recommendation (you can send a recommendation request to RMU faculty or staff using this form)
- $500 deposit

Mandatory Orientation

All participating students are required to review all pre-departure information and attend one of the mandatory Orientations held on March 27th or 28th, 3:30 - 5:00 pm.

Want to learn more?

If you have further questions, please contact Phil Hnatkovich at the Center for Global Engagement at 412-397-6825 or hnatkovichp@rmu.edu.

Please note: Program itineraries are tentative and are subject to change.